THIRTEENTH YEAR

EXTENSION IMPROVEMENT AT U. A. C.

Never before in the history of the U. A. C. has there been a summer to parallel this one for general improvements on the campus, in the main building and around the live stock quarters. From the moment the doors closed in the spring to the present time, the united and incessant labor of carpenters, painters, mechanics, gardeners and yardmen has formed the daily scene at College Hill.

The main approach up the steep incline, which has been the cause of much irritation and a few accidents during the nasty weather, has been widened and graded with tons of dirt and gravel. The less athletically inclined will note this with pleasure. The track on Adams Field is being laid in cinders and promises to be one of the best in the state. All track and field events will take place on this field henceforth.

A sewer system costing $6,000 has been laid connecting every part of the grounds and buildings. Another important installment is the two new lavatories, covering an expenditure of $2,500.

With the completion of the chemistry building, the chemistry, physics and bacteriology laboratories will be removed from their present quarters into their new home. The vacated laboratories will be occupied by the zoology, horticulture and botany departments respectively, and the agronomy laboratory will occupy the old zoology rooms. A new agronomy library room has also been prepared. New floors have been laid in all of these rooms and a thorough renovation has been made. More extensive office space has been provided on the main floor. There is serious consideration of converting one large room on the ground floor into a club room for the young men.

The woodwork of the gym, the main buildings and the live stock quarters has been repainted and improvements in every particular possible have been judiciously executed.

PIONEER AND PATRIARCH IS CALLED

Christian J. Larsen, early pioneer of Utah and well known in this valley died at his home in the Logan Seventh ward yesterday morning about 9:30 following an illness of only a few days. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock in the Seventh ward meeting house.

C. J. Larsen was born May 21, 1831 at Griesvele, Denmark, coming to Utah October 5, 1854, being captain of the Hans Peter Olsen company.

In a church capacity he has always been an ardent worker. From 1850 to 1853 he served as a missionary in his native land, Denmark. For a number of years he was first counselor to Bishop Ballard of Logan and for nearly twenty years was bishop of the Logan Seventh ward.

A wife and nine children survive the deceased, two wives having preceded him to the great beyond.

FAST HORSES FOR COUNTY FAIR

Following are the names of some of the fast galloping horses that will be here for the Cache county fair next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday:

Jimmy Hicks, Johnny Hayes, Verna R., Tenderest, Sultan Jace Wilson, Temple Standard Merida, Buff, Cabin, Bell Snicker, Dublin Minstrel, Duster, Chartier, Frank Mullen, Pony Boy, Meiton Cloth Elva M. Lady, and Queen L. Mr. Hendricks from Lewiston has a fine thoroughbred mare that he will enter. Gallipers from other places will also be here.

There will be two starts each day with not less than five horses in each start and on the last day there will be an extra start for all non-money winners. These races are open to all and there are no entry fees. Those in the county who have good running horses will have an opportunity to try them out during the fair. The distances will be arranged after the horsemen arrive.

The local harness horses now in training at the track are getting in good condition and will make the outside horses race for their money. With the exception of a slight swell, the race track is almost in perfect condition, and if the weather is favorable, some records will be broken.

Owing to so many automobiles it has been decided to make an opening across the race track and permit the automobiles to line up near the fence in the center field. This improvement will make it possible for many more people to see better and avoid the jam and confusion where the automobiles and people are mixed together.

The recent rains have freshened the grass and trees, and with the clean white bridges, fences, stalls, etc., the fair grounds have taken on a beautiful appearance. With the limited means the officers of the association are doing all they can to make it pleasant and comfortable for the public and exhibitors. There will be no dust, plenty of green grass shade, water, seats, and attractions that will entertain.

All the exhibitors have been advised to bring their exhibits in early so that the fair will be ready to open next Tuesday morning at ten o'clock. If the weather is good the officers expect the largest and best Cache County Fair ever held.

RELIEF SOCIETY DAY AT THE FAIR

Remember that Tuesday, September 21 is Relief Society Day. Tell your friends about our hot and cold drinks, hot and cold lunches. All good things at all good prices for everybody. No one goes hungry at the Fair this year.

Bring your husband and family to lunch at our booth and make happy not only them, but the poor.

FIRST YEAR STUDENTS REGISTER SATURDAY

Tuesday the first regular faculty meeting of the school year was held by the Brigham Young College faculty. All the teachers, with the exception of Prof. J. E. Hickman who has not yet reached Logan, were present and expressed themselves as being very optimistic over the outlook for the coming year. The recent ruling of the State Board of Education prohibiting the high school graduate from entering the state examinations, the increasing demand for teachers of the standard Normal type, with the corresponding increase of interest in Normal work are factors which will most likely increase the attendance at the college in spite of the restriction of registration in the first year.

In order that the regular school work may commence early next week and that the first year students on the waiting list may be answered early it has been decided to register first year students on Saturday of this week. On this day the whole faculty force will be on hand and it is hoped to dispose of most of the first year students who will be permitted to enter the B. Y. C. this year.

The work in the Training School started Monday. Each of the departments including the first, third, fifth, and seventh grades, is full and a number of applicants had to be turned away.

MRS. CASTO IS KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Men Probably Fatally Injured and Five Others Seriously Hurt Near St. George

St. George, Utah, Sept. 14.—One woman was killed, two men probably fatally injured, five persons were seriously hurt, one man badly bruised and a three months old baby unhurt, as a result of an automobile stage leaving the Black Ridge road between Bellevue and Kamara this morning and rolling over down a 200 foot embankment, to land bottom side up in the bed of Ash creek at the bottom of the ravine.

The dead are: Mrs. Sarah Casto, 65 years, of Richfield, Utah.

The fatally injured are: Alvin Stucki, 21 years, of Santa Clara, Utah, completely paralyzed below the waist from broken back. William Stucki, 25 years, of Santa Clara, Utah, fractured skull and internal injuries.

The seriously injured are: Lavon Jensen, 5 years, of Richfield, Utah, leg broken and serious injuries about the head and body. K. Booth, 20 years, St. George, Utah, fractured ribs and internal injuries. Warren Cox, 37 years, St. George, Utah, broken arm, fractured ribs and serious bruises and lacerations of the head and body. Rev. C. S. Rice, Cedar City, Utah, broken nose and serious bruises. Mrs. C. S. Rice, bruises of the head and body and possible internal injuries. J. Edward Taylor, state horticultural inspector of Salt Lake, suffered many bruises, but after receiving medical attention was able to continue his journey to Salt Lake, where he will arrive tomorrow.

Baby Is Unscathed

The three months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Rice fell from his mother's arms when the accident occurred and rolled unharmed to the bottom where its lousy cries of fright mingled with the groans of the injured when help arrived. A torn dress, which in some manner had been wrapped about the babe's head in the roll down hill, saved its face from even a scratch.

The accident was discovered by A. B. Christensen of Salt Lake, who drove along the route followed by the stage a few minutes after it had left the road. He hastily administered first aid to the injured and then returned to Bellevue, where he telephoned to Dr. A. N. Leonard of Cedar City. Dr. Leonard received the message of the accident at 11 o'clock and just at noon completed the twenty-seven mile drive over the mountain roads to the scene of the accident. In the meantime Mr. Christensen had returned to the wrecked car and to-

ALL IS READY FOR N. C. HIGH SCHOOL

While the last year was a very successful one for the North Cache High School, the one just beginning promises to be even more so. The building has been renovated and thoroughly cleaned and one new room added so that everything is in readiness for the opening day Monday, September 20. Additional laboratory equipment has been purchased for all of the departments and the faculty has been increased. The faculty consists of C. Henry Anderson, A. B., principal; John H. Peterson, B. S.; Henry T. Plant Jr., B. S.; Chas. I. Stoddard, A. B.; J. H. Pendleton B. S.; Josephine Wallace, A. B.; and Inez Maughan, B. S.

The course of study also has been enlarged so that in addition to the standard high school subjects very excellent work is given in agriculture, carpentry, domestic science, sewing, music and commercial work.

Full credit for any of the work done in the high school will be given by any of the larger institutions of the state. It is the aim of those in charge of the high school to adapt it to the needs of North Cache County. The aim is to train the young people in a way that will help them not only to make a living but a life that will stand for something.

No young person who is eligible for high school can miss the opportunity extended to them by the North Cache High School this winter. As our civilization becomes more complex the struggle for existence becomes more keen and only those who are best prepared and fitted will best survive.

As a mark of distinction and recognition of the work done at the North Cache High School all of its last year's graduates have either been appointed to important positions of honor or trust or have arranged to enter college and continue their work. Keith Merrill the president of the class, has been given the position of office clerk for the Overhead Construction department of the Ogden, Logan & Idaho R. R. Co. Kenneth Merrill has been given the position of office clerk at the Logan Knitting Factory; Evelyn Thompson and Eliza Stoddard have been given positions in the Cache county school system. Grace Webb will assist in the commercial department of the North Cache High and act as clerk of the school. Ray Van Noy has gone in a business for himself. Wilford Merrill and Harold Monson will enter the U. A. C. and take up college work. Olga Larson will enter the B. Y. C. at Logan. Donna Chambers is preparing to continue her school work.

gether with Mr. Taylor, who had partially recovered the fall, aided those who had been hurt, and succeeded in getting the Stucki brothers from beneath the wrecked car where they were pinned. Both were unconscious. Mrs. Casto, whose head and chest had been crushed in the roll down hill, had been thrown to one side. She apparently had died almost instantly.

Goed Over Embankment

The stage which was in charge of Warren Cox, had left St. George for Cedar City soon after 10 o'clock this morning with a capacity load. Something seemed to go wrong with the spring on the rear axle and Mr. Cox was looking around the side of the car when it was going up the grade to inspect the spring when the machine left the road. The embankment at that point is very steep and the car capsized instantly and continued to roll over and over in its course to the bottom of the ravine, where it finally stopped in the creek bed.

Mrs. Casto, who was killed, had been visiting with the family of her son-in-law and daughter of St. George. Her grandchild, Lavon Jensen, was accompanying her to her home in Richfield. Mrs. Casto's body was brought here this afternoon and will be taken to Richfield tomorrow.

All of the injured, with the exception of the Jensen child, were brought to the hospital here for treatment, the later being taken to Cedar City by Dr. Leonard. Mr. Taylor, after his injuries were given attention by Dr. Leonard, was able to continue his trip to Lund, and will reach Salt Lake tomorrow morning.

TEXT BOOK ON AGRONOMY BY HIGH SCHOOL

Written by Dr. F. S. Harris and George Stewart of the U. A. C.

In keeping with the practical demands of the present day, high schools are gradually adapting their curriculum to give elementary training in the practical pursuits of life. Agriculture is undoubtedly one of the fundamental studies that is now receiving prominent attention in nearly all schools. This new text is intended to supply our high schools with reliable knowledge regarding the principles of crop production. It gives emphasis to those crops widely grown within our own state and for which untilled lands are well adapted.

The book contains thirty-three chapters and covers, with a certain degree of thoroughness, plant and soil structure; water of the soils; fertilizers; tillage and crop rotation; alkaline lands; field crops, including wheat, alfalfa, root crops, clovers and grasses; pastures, meadows and soiling systems; improvement of crops; what crops to grow; equipment of the farm and factors of success in crop production. A brief treatise on the science of agriculture and its relation to the other sciences is also set forth.

Dr. Harris has spent years experimenting and instructing in the principles of agronomy and, therefore, his work, as contained in this new text, may be taken as preeminently practicable. It is hoped that with a uniform text book, the high schools may render valuable service to the young men of the state before they reach the college age and especially to those who are unable to obtain a college education but are anxious to acquire some vital information to aid them on the farm where their labors are needed, making it impossible for them to receive the opportunities of advanced study in the higher institutions.

CACHE COUNTY EXHIBIT AT THE UTAH STATE FAIR

One of the most interesting announcements of the past week in connection with the agricultural and horticultural display at the state fair is the news that many prominent men in Cache county are back of a movement to bring the majority of exhibits that will be entered in the Cache county fair to be held in Logan next week, to Salt Lake and enter these exhibits as a Cache county exhibit.

Cache county has not exhibited at the fair, as a county, in the past few years, and leading men of the county are very much in favor of inaugurating a county exhibit this year. The Cache county fair, to be held in Logan will find many prominent livestock growers, farmers, and orchardists of Cache Valley exhibiting and it is believed that the majority of these exhibits will form the nucleus of a splendid county representation in the horticultural and agricultural departments of the state fair, to be held in Salt Lake from September 27 to October 6, inclusive.

J. W. Hendricks of Richmond, one of the directors of the State Fair Board, reports that the move is gaining in popularity all through Cache county, and he is doing everything in his power to make it a success and bring Cache county fair exhibits to Salt Lake for the state fair.

Many fine exhibits are expected for the Cache county fair in Logan, and it has been pointed out that the majority of these exhibits could be moved to Salt Lake and assigned space in the horticultural and agricultural divisions of the state fair with but very little expense to the authorities of Cache county, and the benefits derived from such a county exhibit at the fair would be immeasurable for Cache county. Such counties as Box Elder, Weber, Washington, Utah and others who install elaborate exhibits at the state fair each year declare that the immense and valuable amount of advertising that these counties receive as a result of such exhibits, is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the farmers and other citizens of these counties.

LAURA HOPE CREWS AT LYRIC

In a Picturization of the Famous Belasco Hit "The Fighting Hope" Tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 17

The following is the cast of characters Robert Granger, actors:

Robert Granger George Gebhardt
Anna, his wife Laura Hope Crews
Robert Harold Granger Gerald Ward
Burton Temple Thomas Meighan
Craven, Temple's Confidential Adviser Richard Morris
Miss Gorham Florence Smythe
Cornelius Brady Theodore Roberts
Rose Fanchon Cleo Ridgely
Detective Clark Tom Forman
Detective Fletcher Billy Elmer

Synopsis
Though posing before his wife, Anna, and his associates as a very much overworked business man, Robert Granger has been caught and enmeshed in the night life of the great city. His salary as treasurer of the Gotham Trust Co., though ample to supply Anna and the two boys with moderate comforts, is inadequate to meet the wants of Rose Fanchon, his companion in his efforts to see life.

Cornelius Brady, one of the old depositors of the Gotham, applies to the president, Burton Temple, asking him to certify a cheque for $700,000 and is refused for the reason that he has not such an amount on deposit. Brady then appeals to Granger, as treasurer, offering him a bonus of $100,000, promising to refund the money to the trust company within a few days. The matter is left open and Granger, to meet the repeated demands of Rose, finally writes Brady that he will arrange the certification of the cheque. The cheque is presented for payment the day before a financial panic, and the company is forced to pay it and go out of business. Granger is sentenced to ten years in jail, but through his own cleverness and that of Brady is made to appear in the papers as the scapegoat for Temple.

Mrs. Granger believes her husband's assertions that he is innocent and gets a position under an assumed name as secretary for Temple, on whom she wishes to fasten the responsibility. In the meantime, Temple, being indicted, has to employ detectives himself and they finally locate the letter written by Granger to Brady. Temple falls in love with Anna, but, because of his involved position, does not reveal this fact to her. Anna, however, cannot help coming to respect him more and more.

The Granger letter is finally secured by Temple, who gives it to Anna to put in the safe. She reads it, learns that her husband is guilty—and then destroys it to protect the name of her children without appreciating that she is destroying the proof of Temple's innocence. Temple tells Anna that he loves her. She then confesses that she is the wife of Robert Granger and that she has burned the letter.

Rose, having discovered that the stolen money has not actually been put into her name, turns on Granger and is ready to betray him. Granger escaping from prison, goes to Temple's house where he finds his wife to whom he represents that he has been pardoned. When Anna tells him that she knows of his guilt he replies that he did it all for her and the boys, but this falsehood is contradicted by Rose, who tells the wife the truth about her unworthy husband. Granger says that if his wife testifies for Temple he will accuse her of living with that man. In the struggle which follows, Granger is shown still to be in prison garb.

Policemen appear, eager to search the house for Granger, who has been trailed. He tries to escape, but thru the treachery of Rose, is discovered and shot.

This final tragedy itself opens the way for Anna Granger to begin life again with a man of different and nobler character.

The Wilford Woodruff Camp of the Daughters of the Pioneers will meet at the home of Mrs. P. M. Nielsen, 357 South First West, Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Goodspeed and Williams, managers of the Johnson farm are harvesting a nice crop of peaches and grapes. They say they will compete with the Box Elder county peach.
